

Masked for statistical significance. Hatching indicates where higher topography increased model biases (calculated as Model-IMERG observations). Thin black lines are model surface height boundary conditions, intervals of 500 m starting at 1 km.